

BACKGROUND

Much has changed since the last ten years, when an earthquake and tsunami on December 26, 2004 destroyed the city of Banda Aceh. Overall 286,000 people died in 14 countries, including 221,000 dead or missing in Aceh. Statistics above is something pathetic when we recall the disaster. However, today, ten years after the process of reconstruction and socio-political change in Aceh, we can turn away from the damage, and see the good things that have happened. Disasters and the work lasts for many years, had an impact not only in Aceh, but have provided valuable lessons for the world.
